

Soliloquy of an acorn

Something tells me
to surrender
all I am
and hope to be;

And to descend
the dark of earth
to be transformed
into a tree.

But to go up
dare I go down;
and think a tree
can fit in me?

